SCORE Workshops

Human Resources; Finding and Managing Good People

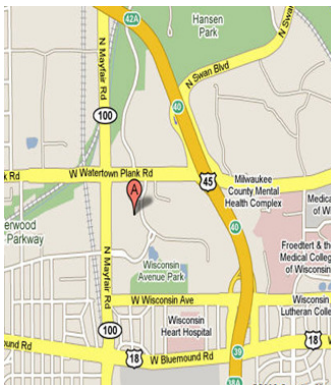

Having the right employees with the right skills and attitudes can make your business successful. This workshop is targeted at small business owners who need to sharpen their employee management skills.

Highlights: You will learn:

- How to prepare employee performance evaluations.
- How to interview and hire new employees.
- Employee Compensation plans and benefits
- How to fire or lay off employees

Presenter:

Tim Clark started his career in public accounting, and then spent 25 years at Allen-Bradley (Rockwell). At Allen-Bradley he held a number of Senior Financial positions and General Management positions as Senior Vice Presidents of several global business operations. Prior to his retirement in 2005 he had served for four years as the chief executive officer of Mayville Engineering Company. Tim has managed many employees in his long career. Tim's excellent presentation skills will help you understand this important subject.
