Selecting Business System software for Business Growth

Whether you just started your business or if you have been in business for awhile, selecting the right business system software is critical to your businesses growth and productivity. There are many systems available from simple Excel spreadsheets to complex ERP (Enterprise Resource Planning), CRM (Customer Relationship Management), POP or POS (Point of Purchase/sale) systems. This workshop will go into the various types of systems and provide “hands on” example of some of the most popular systems. We will also review how adaptable each system is and how modules can be added to the system as the business
